

Medical Administrative Assistant w/EHR

INDUSTRY FACTS

What do medical administrative assistants do?

Healthcare is changing. With healthcare reform, medical records must move to an electronic format, which has created an incredible need for administrative professionals trained on electronic health record (EHR) software. Medical administrative assistants with EHR skills are the specialized administrative personnel increasingly in demand to keep the modern medical office running smoothly. Specific responsibilities vary from location to location, but may include:

- Creating and updating patients' electronic health records
- Managing the day-to-day operations of a medical facility
- Scheduling and coordinating appointments
- Verifying patient insurance
- Completing and submitting insurance claims
- Preparing correspondence between medical providers and their patients
- Providing quality customer service to patients

Where do medical administrative assistants work?

Medical administrative assistants work in a professional environment in a variety of healthcare facilities, and the demand for them will only increase as electronic health records become more standard. Positions can be found in doctors' offices, hospitals, outpatient clinics, and many other types of healthcare facilities.

How much do medical administrative assistants earn?

The U.S. Department of Labor reports that the need for medical administrative assistants is growing faster than demand in other fields.

Is the medical administrative assistants field growing?

There is a growing demand for well-trained medical transcription professionals, and there are several factors driving this growth:

- Thousands of new jobs.
Over 129,000 new jobs are expected for medical administrative assistants before 2026. Professionals with EHR expertise will be in the highest demand.
- Growing demand for healthcare services.
Healthcare as a whole is expected to add over 2.3 million new jobs over the next few years, which is driven by an aging population that requires more care. This rapid industry expansion will greatly increase the need for administrative personnel, especially those with EHR expertise
- Shift to technology.
Healthcare is changing, and government healthcare reform is pushing facilities to move to electronic health records, making EHR skills stand out in the job market.
